

Activities

Computer/Technology

11	Mobile developer of the app "Visit Karakalpakstan", Technovation Girls
School
5 hr/wk, 12 wk/yr	Collaborated with 4 girls and 4 mentors, developed a mobile app, wrote a business plan to solve a local problem
Continue

Academic

12	Mentee of 1000 Girls, 1000 Futures, The New York Academy of Sciences
School
4 hr/wk, 8 wk/yr	Collaborate with an international team and mentor, create projects, complete challenge modules by providing solutions
Continue

Academic

12	Mentee of the Junior Academy, The New York Academy of Sciences
School
4 hr/wk, 8 wk/yr	Compete in project-based 10-week challenges focused on UNSD Goals with an international team and design innovative solutions
Continue

Internship

11	Web Developer Intern, Diamond Solutions LLC
Break
10 hr/wk, 8 wk/yr	Using frontend development tools to implement UI/UX of the web application - Customer Relationship Management app, and integrating it with backend
Continue

Other Club/Activity

11, 12	Team leader and Speaker, Agency of Youth Affairs
Year
4 hr/wk, 16 wk/yr	Created & presented project 'Digital Journalism', became finalists of the competition '100 ideas for Uzbekistan' - of 24740, 245 chosen finalists
Continue

Internship

12	Content Writer, The Parallels
School	Work in a team, write podcasts, video scripts, website and social media content
7 hr/wk, 6 wk/yr
Continue

Other Club/Activity

11, 12	Founder Of Speaking Club
School, Break	Organise weekly events for 10+ people, teach speaking English skills, lead discussions
3 hr/wk, 8 wk/yr
Continue

Other Club/Activity

11	English language and Maths tutor
Break	Tutored 5 children, tested their knowledge, researched topics, prepared materials, guided them for examinations, and gave individual feedback
6 hr/wk, 8 wk/yr
Continue

Student Govt./Politics

9, 10	Class leader of Educational Affairs
School	Evaluated the academic performance of 38 students, gave weekly reports to classmaster, supervised low-performing peers, organised monthly events
5 hr/wk, 30 wk/yr
Continue

Art

9, 10, 11, 12	A member of virtual art community, artwanted.com
Year	I share my artwork with artists and photographers in my portfolio, get feedback from the community: https://www.artwanted.com/artist.cfm?ArtID=108284
2 hr/wk, 15 wk/yr
Continue

Writing

Personal Essay

Discuss an accomplishment, event, or realization that sparked a period of personal growth and a new understanding of yourself or others.

Every time I had to ask a question, or to talk to a stranger or someone special to me, my internal board of directors would have an instantaneous meeting about making the decision. My fear would argue that it is impossible, my anxiety would tell me not to approach that person, my confidence on the other hand would push me forward and talk. Until I had considered every other option, how to ask that question, how that person would respond and what to say in response to the answer, it would be too late—either that person would have already left or the topic of discussion would have switched to a completely different one.

This happened to me thousands of times, until I had a realization that changed my internal conversation. In one of the classes, there was a discussion about the different types of “verts”. My friend’s argument that “introverts miss a lot of opportunities in life” had a profound effect on me and caused me to reflect on my life.

That night I had a debate in my mind with my internal board of directors:

Me: Am I really missing out?

My confidence: Absolutely yes. You feel confident in your comfort zone but every now and then you should cross the line and push yourself beyond the boundaries.

Me: Okay, but what exactly have I missed?

Confidence: Do you remember that Computer Science lesson when you did not dare to ask that stupid question about logic gates?

Me: Yes, I do. You discussed it for a very long time.

My regret: And do you remember one student asking that question and getting rewarded for it?

Me: I do.

My regret: You had missed your reward then.

Me: But I still got an answer to that question indirectly.

My guilt: What if that student did not ask?

Me: I would not have an answer till now.

Not until then did I realize I was missing life-changing opportunities by missing those small chances of asking questions, or sparking connections by initiating conversations.

In order to prove to myself that I could take every chance along the way, I started thinking about ways to boost my confidence. I started seeking opportunities and crossing the boundaries I had set before. I would still sit in the corner of the library, reading a book, but I also pushed myself to become the class leader of educational affairs. I still preferred doing art solo and being in a virtual community, but decided to compete in Technovation Girls, in a wonderful team. I am still hesitant about giving presentations in front of the class, but I committed myself to competing in “100 ideas for Uzbekistan” as a team leader and speaker, and gave a speech in front of more than a hundred people. Earlier, I could not have imagined myself leading and educating people but founded a speaking club, and provided tutoring classes.

I can still be called “Miss Tranquility” who lives in a happy world of her own, only venturing out to meet the few whom she trusts. However, now I do not hesitate to ask questions or initiate conversations. Sometimes, I become that student who raises her hand to ask or answer questions every other second in classes.